SHENANDOAH SAILING TO ITS FIRST MOORING

Giant Air Cruiser Is Due To Make Anchorage at Fort Worth Tonight

GREENVILLE, Miss., Oct. 8.—The U. S. S. Shenandoah, en route from Lakehurst, N. J., to Fort Worth, Texas, crossed the Mississippi river here at 11:50 a. m.

ABOARD THE SHENANDOAH, Oct. 8.—Sailing smoothly at an altitude of 2,500 feet, the Shenandoah crossed the lower tip of the Allegheny mountains at a speed of forty-five miles an hour at 7 o'clock this morning.

Atlanta was sighted at 4:25 o'clock just as day was breaking and the Georgia city's populace was awakening. A salvo of locomotive whistles echoed through the clouds to the wonderment of those on board the Shenandoah.

The sun, a golden ball, was peeping over the eastern horizon of the Blue Ridge foothills at 7 o'clock. Banks of clouds lay heavily in the valleys as first rays of the sunlight streamed like ribbons across their silvery surface.

Astonishes Farm Folks

On the dirt roads winding across the foothills of Alabama, farmers with their families could be seen driving to nearby villages for the day's shopping. On sighting the Shenandoah they were seen to stop abruptly and gaze in amazement until lost to view.

The ship's speed was increased approximately thirty-five miles per hour shortly after daybreak because of better sailing conditions. The stiff wind which it had been heading against for hours, died down.

Ship Lands Tonight

It took almost twenty hours to make the journey from Lakehurst to Atlanta, a distance of approximately the same as that from Chicago to the New Jersey hangar, which the Shenandoah negotiated at a speed of eighty-five miles an hour a year ago.

Officers of the ship estimated this morning that Dallas would be reached early this evening and Fort Worth less than an hour's flight further west, shortly afterwards. Unless some difficulty is encountered, the Shenandoah will be fast to the mooring mast at Fort Worth before midnight.

Grice, a taxicab driver, at bay two hours with a revolver in a vain effort to force him to sign a mysterious paper, and then, failing, to shoot and kill herself in his presence.

The tragedy took place in the store of the girl's stepfather, Frank Chambers, early today. Grice told police he had argued with the girl for two hours in an effort to dissuade her from suicide. Grice declined to reveal the nature of the paper the girl designed him to sign.

PIRATES ROB, MURDER ON TREASURE STEAMER

Gang Captures Ship, Holds It More Than Two Days, Kills Quartermaster

AMOY, China, Oct. 8.—Bringing a sensational story of piracy the San Peh Steam Navigation Co. steamer Ningshin, 2,897 tons, from Shanghai, arrived here today carrying over 300 Chinese and seven foreign passengers who had been terrorized for more than two days by a band of thirty-four pirates who seized and looted the ship near Wenchow on October 3.

The total loot of the pirates is still unknown, but the ship carried a cargo valued at half a million taels, which included thirty cases of silver valued at $120,000. The silver, some mail and a quantity of piece goods were taken.

Kill Quartermaster

The pirates boarded the ship at Shanghai as passengers. When the ship neared Wenchow the pirate band began firing, killing a native quartermaster and wounding one sailor. Their leader compelled the captain to sail southward along the coast into Bias bay, less than thirty miles from Hong Kong, where they leisurely looted the ship and its passengers.

The high sea marauders then put off in junks and the captain brought the ship into Amoy. The passengers were uninjured. The foreign passengers included the following Americans: N. Overholt, G. H. Bartlett, R. Hightower and L. Brown.

Sent to Southern California by his parents to reside at the home of his uncle, J. P. McDonald, Inglewood, Elmer entered school and attended but one day.

The next morning he packed his few possessions, including some photographs of himself, took his uncle's Mauser rifle and started out to see the west.

Many Local Dealers Take Prominent Part In State Convention

Headquarters of Delegation Prove Most Attractive; Visitors Hear All About Fastest Growing Community

Sixty-one members of the Glendale Realty board registered at the Hotel Maryland in Pasadena today for the twentieth annual convention of the California Real Estate association which opened there this morning for its three day session.

Indications were that more members of the local body would be registered before the day was over, as there remained forty more members of the Glendale board who had not yet registered.

Boost for Glendale

Decked in gay head regalia, consisting of purple skull caps with the words "Glendale Realtors" in gold letters, members of the local board gathered at their artistic headquarters on the first floor of the hotel and marched to the first meeting in a body.

President Peter Hanson was unable to attend the first day's meeting, because of illness, but is expected to be present for the second day's activities.

Best Headquarters

Glendale's headquarters, located to the rear of the Colorado street entrance of the hotel, are as artistic as any established by visiting or local realty boards.

Eleven silver cups, won by the city for civic activities are arranged on a background of lavender drapery. On the walls are four paintings by F. Grayson Sayre of this city. A huge banner in the board colors of purple and gold contains the wording "Glendale Realty Board—the Fastest Growing City."

Talk By Guthrie

Charles B. Guthrie was the first Glendale man to take part in the program of the convention. Following the reception given the realtors at the mass meeting at 9 o'clock, Mr. Guthrie, as district vice-president of the Seventh district of the realty association, told briefly the progress made by this district during the past year, when the number of boards had been increased from thirteen to twenty-four and the membership from 429 to 785.

He lauded the committees which have performed certain duties in the upbuilding of the boards in the district, and gave especial praise to Henry P. Barbour, president of the state association.

Welcomes Delegates

President Barbour of the state body presided at the first meeting and, following invocation by Dr. Daniel F. Fox, Mayor Hiram W. Wadsworth officially welcomed the visiting realtors to Pasadena.

Robert A. Swink, president of the Pasadena Realty board, in a stirring talk, extended the welcome from the realty board, and Charles R. Prisk, publisher of The Pasadena Star-News, also added a few words of welcome.

Glenn D. Willaman, secretary and managing director of the state association, gave his annual report, which appears elsewhere in this issue of The Evening News and Robert H. Ennis, president of the National Association of Real Estate Boards of Kansas City, Mo., told what the national body is doing.

SEEK SITE IN MEXICO FOR COLONY OF JAPANESE

Nippon Government Leaders Send Representative to Make Investigation

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—Japan is once more dreaming of colonizing Mexico. Angered and humiliated through the provisions of the new immigration law which effectively blocks further immigration into the United States, continually on the diplomatic defense as a result of her efforts to colonize Manchuria and secure an impregnable foothold on the Asian mainland, and against a stone wall in disposing of its surplus population, Tokio is again seeking a "place in the sun" for its human overflow.

That Japan, through events of the past year, has once more been forced to seek a feasible colonization scheme in Mexico, became known today when Elichi Kimura, counsellor of the Japanese embassy here, left on an extensive trip through Mexico that will carry him to every part of the country over every railroad and give him an opportunity to study the entire question with even more exactitude than previous Japanese investigators.

Kimura's mission, it is said, will be to discover some way in which a successful Japanese experimental colony can be set up in Northern Mexico, a problem that is still unsolved, despite the fact that Japanese attaches of the Tokio government have made innumerable trips into Mexico to study.

National Forests Being Opened Through State

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 8.—Definite end of the forest fire peril in Northern California for the present year was announced today by the United States district forester's office, as a result of the recent rains.

All restricted national forests in the Sierra mountains and northern coast range have been opened to public use with the exception of Stanislaus National forest, where hoof and mouth quarantine regulations are in effect.

Southern California was still dry, it was said, although the light showers there have dampened the forests sufficiently to further reduce the fire hazard.

"Senator La Follette's statement about my connection with the campaign is fabrication. I know nothing about the Republican national committee's finances, and I have no connection, directly or indirectly, with handling them. Neither will I have in the future. It has not been suggested that I leave Washington in the interests of President Coolidge's candidacy, and I have no intention of leaving."

La Follette Once More Claims Collection of Fund

HOBOKEN, N. J., Oct. 8.—Reiterating his charge that the Republican party is collecting a vast slush fund, "to buy the election of President Coolidge," Senator Robert M. La Follette, independent presidential candidate, today again demanded a full investigation by the Borah committee of campaign expenditures of all parties.

'Coolidge or Chaos' Is Slogan Used by Dawes

EN ROUTE WITH GENERAL DAWES IN IOWA, Oct. 8.—The message of conservative Republicanism—"Coolidge or Chaos"—was being carried today into the wide open spaces of the Midwest.

Dawes, republican vice-presidential candidate, today sounded a warning against radicalism, against reactionaries and against La Follette and his progressive platform, urging limitation of the powers of the Supreme court through constitutional changes.

GIANTS GET TOTAL OF 13 HITS OFF JOHNSON

Jack Bentley Hurls Good Game for McGraw and Also Makes Homer

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Jack Bentley is a left-handed resident of Washington, D. C., and this afternoon he showed his civic pride by making a personal matter out of beating Walter Johnson and the Senators in the fifth game of the world's series. Score 6 to 2.

Bentley, a last-minute nominee by the Giants not only pitched in a very superior manner, but socked in what proved to be the winning runs with a homer into the right field stands with Gowdy aboard in the fifth.

That was the blow that killed father. It gave the Giants the odd victory in the five games played and all but Johnson enjoyed the afternoon. It was Walter's second start, also his second defeat. The Giants smote him for thirteen hits, that tells the story.

Leaves His Marks

Ultimately Bentley disappeared from view in the eighth, after Goslin hit his third homer of the series and Judge his third single of the game, but like the lives of great men he had left his footprints on the sands of time and on all three bases and the home plate.

Johnson's weakness allowed three more on singles by Kelly, Terry and Frisch, sandwiched with a pass, Jackson's sacrifice fly and Johnson's own error on Wilson's sacrifice.

The performance placed the Giants in a position where a victory in Washington will net them the world title without further ado.

Another capacity crowd, well in excess of 50,000, witnessed the affair and this time fickle New York fandom turned against the Senators and supported the Giants.

Outside of Goslin's homer the Senators were rather feeble in their attack. Their only other tally resulted in the fourth from Judge's single, Bluege's sacrifice and Miller's hit to right. In the previous inning they got three singles in a row but failed to score when Rice popped out and Goslin was killed off by Frisch and Terry. It was something of a misspent afternoon.

REALTY WORK OUTLINED IN TALK

State Real Estate Official Speaks at Opening Of Convention

PASADENA, Oct. 8.—Using for his subject "The Accomplishments of the Real Estate Department," Edwin T. Kaiser, state real estate commissioner with offices in Los Angeles, addressed the ment," Edwin T. Keiser, state real tion at the Maryland hotel patio this morning, laying special emphasis on the functions of the department and the way in which it has met the problems since its inception.

Contrary to popular belief, Mr. Keiser pointed out that success in the department "is not measured by the number of licenses revoked, suspended or denied, neither by the number of licenses issued and money collected, but by the adoption and working out of policies which assist the real estate broker in rendering a better service to his clients."

Points Out Offences

"In the administrative work of the department two classes of offences are found," Mr. Keiser declared. "First, those where the act is wrong in itself, involving moral turpitude on the part of the offender; and second, where the act is wrong because the law makes it so, and which may or may not involve moral turpitude."

Attention in administrative work is directed to the first class of these offenses—those that are wrong in themselves, and when a complaint is filed, "the first thing to be done is to determine whether or not the department has jurisdiction, and then do the thing that will best serve the ends of justice," the commissioner continued.

In reference to the co-operation of the department with the authorities of the law, Mr. Keiser said:

"We never stop with a revocation of a license if it is possible to go further. Should an offence justify, our files are always turned over to the district attorney of jurisdiction, or to the office of the United States attorney general."

States Accomplishments

After giving a resume of the many problems with which the department has been confronted since the days of the oil boom, Mr. Keiser stated briefly what the state real estate department has accomplished. First, it has provided a place where the public may take their real estate troubles. It is protecting the public from fraudulent land subdivisions, only those projects possessing elements making possible a satisfactory investment are approved. It has co-operated with organized real estate boards to help raise the standard of real estate ethics.

In conclusion, Mr. Keiser said: "The public is beginning to look to you for the service you profess to give rather than look out for you."

Plumbing Co. Is Well Pleased With Glendale

"We started in business in Glendale four years ago, said F. R. Bruner of the Jewel Plumbing Co. to a reporter of The Glendale Evening News, "and we are perfectly satisfied with the business we have done in the years of this city's marvelous growth. The Jewel Plumbing Co. is the sole agent in Glendale and district for the popular Ward furnace floor heater, which, according to Mr. Bruner, is being purchased by home owners in Glendale, at a very brisk rate. In explaining this latest gas heating device Mr. Bruner said:

"I am fully convinced myself that it is the superior of all other heaters, for the reason that there is no unburned gas that can flood the room and cause sickness. And again, there is no danger of one's clothing catching fire. It will heat four or five rooms. It is really a natural, healthful heat and we give a ten-year guarantee with every furnace."

Brother Her Press Agent

This is a picture of NITA NALDI, famed as a moving picture vampire. She is said to have eloped with a Cleveland trust company president. However, all the bankers in Cleveland are accounted for—and so it is believed the story, which came from the girl's brother, is a press agent yarn.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Oct. 8.—A press agent blurb is suspected in the romantically lurid story of the elopement of Nita Naldi, famed screen vamp, and "Giacimel Sanges."

Frank Naldi, brother of the star, is declared to be responsible for the report that his sister is "eloping" to Spain on the same boat as "Sanges," whom he describes as "an internationally famous fencer, duelist, traveler and president of the Cleveland Trust Co., who won his reputation as a duelist when he killed Mussolini, brother of the Fascist chief, following a quarrel in a cafe over mention of a woman's name."

Sanges is not known in Cleveland, and all of the bank presidents in the city are fully accounted for by their wives.

The report of the "elopement" said that Mr. and Mrs. Rodolph Valentino, now sojourning in Europe, would be best man and bridesmaid at the wedding in Spain.

Eggs are now being sold for a cent apiece in Russia.

The report shows that President Barbour personally addressed seventy-five of the 100 boards which comprise the state association.

The monthly publication of the state association, California, Real Estate magazine, thirty special bulletins and the weekly news service were all giving uninterrupted service during the year.

Bakersfield, Berkeley, Fresno, Los Angeles, Oakland, Richmond, Santa Ana, Santa Barbara, Santa Cruz and the Southwest Realty board of Los Angeles were among the boards which were made 100 per cent membership boards in the state association during the year.

Gives Co-operation

At all times during the year the state association has given to Real Estate Commissioner Edwin T. Keiser the fullest co-operation, and the state real estate department and the California Real Estate association have functioned on the most friendly terms to the mutual benefit of both organizations.

During the year the state association moved to its larger headquarters in the W. M. Garland building in Los Angeles, where a suite of four offices equipped with every modern facility is operated for the benefit of the state association members.

The state association, realizing the value of an adequate real estate library, has endeavored at all times to handle for its members the representative books on real estate practice and procedure.

Financial Report

During the year the gross income of the California Real Estate association was more than $54,000, of which one-third came from the magazine, 40 per cent from dues, and the remainder from standard forms, books, etc., sold by the association.

The cash on hand and accounts receivable of the state association amount to $12,000, while the liabilities of the organization are about $4000.

MUSIC CLUB IN FIRST PROGRAM

Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, Club Founder, Unable to Attend Concert

There was only one regrettable feature of the opening concert of the Glendale Music club last night at the Tuesday Afternoon clubhouse, and that was the absence of the club founder and president, Mrs. Mattison B. Jones, who is confined to her foothill home with a severe cold taken while en route home from a summer trip east and abroad. The club had planned a reception for Mrs. Jones following the concert and it was with regret that they postponed their plans until she is completely well.

In Mrs. Jones' absence Miss Myrtle Baldwin, club director, graciously presided, giving greeting from Mrs. Jones and stating that the latest report received

GIVES TALK ON SEWER CONTRACT

Councilman S. A. Davis In Address at Convention Of Municipalities

MONTEREY, Oct. 8.—Councilman S. A. Davis of Glendale was one of the principal speakers this morning before the twenty-sixth annual convention of the League of California Municipalities, delivering the address on "Joint Outfall Sewers by Two or More Cities" which had been prepared by Ray L. Morrow, Glendale city attorney, and would have been delivered by him in person, had Mr. Morrow not been obliged to remain home to prepare the legal work for placing Glendale's $650,000 civic center bond proposition before the voters on November 4.

Aids Sewer System

Councilman Davis was introduced as the man who, with Mayor Spencer Robinson of Glendale, was largely responsible for obtaining the contract with the city of Los Angeles, making possible the construction of the $1,600,000 sewer system now under construction in Glendale, and which is to connect with the main Los Angeles outfall sewer.

The address was of particular interest to the many city attorneys from California municipalities present in the assembly room, who regard the success of Glendale and Los Angeles in the negotiation of this contract as establishing an important precedent that will be followed by many other cities in years to come.

Van Wie Gives Talk

A. J. Van Wie, Glendale city clerk, also addressed this morning's session of the convention, choosing for his topic "Simplified Filing" and offering many valuable suggestions gained through his eight years' service in his present capacity. The address was carefully prepared and well received.

John S. Myers, Los Angeles city auditor, spoke at the morning session on "A Modernized System of Auditing and Accounting." This afternoon the convention heard talks on activated sludge plants, budget control and water treatment. Tonight at 8 o'clock there will be a session devoted to the power situation, with motion picture illustrations.

Yearly Reports Given At Meeting of Class

Yearly reports were given at the meeting of the J. O. C. class of the First Methodist church in the church parlors last night, the reports of the committees showing that 1615 visits to the sick and to strangers were made and that 213 bouquets had been taken to sick people. Members of the class decided to give $250 to the Y. M. C. A. building fund. The work of this class is to help needy families and at the present time the class is paying the tuition of two orphan children at the David and Margaret home at LaVerne and also furnishing them with clothes.

New officers were installed by Mrs. Sam Warren, who besides being a member of the class is also a national officer of the J. O. C. union. A communication was read from Mrs. M. S. Kuehny, resigning from the office of president on account of home and school duties and Mrs. A. E. Mack was elected to fill the vacancy. A program included vocal numbers by Mrs. Harriett Pearce and Mrs. Marion Cates and readings by Mrs. Wheeler. Refreshments suggestive of the Hallowe'en season were served by the following committee: Mesdames Butterifeld, Case, Dundas, Clifton, Dean, Brown, Caldwell, Dunlap, Evans, Bowers and Coburn and Miss Grace Case. The membership in the class is two hundred, and seventy-five were present last night.

Curtis Davis, who did not feel she could assume the curatorship.

Plans were discussed for the opening meeting of the club next Tuesday. Mention was also made of the Chamber of Commerce forum dinner October 20 at the clubhouse. Mrs. Daniel Campbell is chairman of the affair. Club officers, directors and curators are to receive.

Concert Master Noted For Violin Artistry

There are few more distinguished violinists playing today, critics agree, than Sylvain Noack, concert master and assistant conductor of the Los Angeles Philharmonic orchestra, that is to appear at the Broadway High school the night of October 17.

Mr. Noack has had twenty-six years of experience in the first violin section of great European orchestras, states Principal George U. Moyse of the Glendale Union High school, yet the man is still in his early forties, as he began playing when he was only 17 years of age. His first professional work was with the famous Concertgebeouw orchestra of Amsterdam, of which William Mengelberg was the conductor.

PLAN TO CONTINUE DRIVE UNTIL AMOUNT IS RAISED

Team Captains Report at Dinner Held Last Night at Glendale Presbyterian Church; Will Maintain Organization to Finish

The $275,000 drive for a Glendale Y. M. C. A. building drew within $6,941 of its goal at last night's dinner of team workers held at the Glendale Presbyterian church, thanks largely to $18,723 in individual guarantees made by workers and members of the executive committee.

Another meeting will be held at the Presbyterian church at 7:30 o'clock Friday night, October 10, it was decided at the conclusion of the meeting, after it had been voted to continue the organization intact until the full $275,000 is raised or until November 1, the time limit set for completing the drive.

Report of Teams

A total of $10,329.40 was reported by the five teams and the executive committee, at the opening of the meeting. This reduced the balance needed to $25,664, stated George D. McDill, general chairman, who presided over the meeting.

Mr. McDill then rendered a report from the executive committee, which had been in session during the dinner, to the effect that six men of this committee had pledged themselves to raise $10,000 and would stand back of it personally if they were unable to get it from the people of Glendale.

On circulation of pledge cards guaranteeing to make up the deficit by November, 1929, with the privilege of substituting subscriptions up to May, 1925, an additional $6,700 was raised, which, with $20 raised by auctioning off to H. Park Arnold two silver and one paper rupees from India, and by the donation of $3 from the savings bank of little Harriet Adell Elliott, deceased daughter of W. Paul Elliott of 526 West Stocker street, brought the balance needed to $6,941.

Evening News Room

It was announced that the subscription of $1000 by A. T. Cowan for the endowment of a room to be known as The Glendale Evening News room in the new Y. M. C. A. building, had been completed. Mr. Cowan, in addressing the team captains, urged that the organization be maintained at full strength until the last dollar of the requisite $275,000 is raised and declared that the workers need have no fear of continuing to solicit the public until the goal has been reached.

The boys and girls of Glendale are to have an opportunity to raise $1000 for a room in the Y. M. C. A. building dedicated to the memory of Harriet Adell Elliott, who died Friday, October 3, 1924, aged 8 years. Mr. McDill very touchingly told how this little girl had wanted to give something for the building, as her two brothers were doing by selling the $1 "bricks," and how her father had promised she might give the savings in her two little banks.

A committee was appointed to bring the matter of a Harriet Adell Elliott room in the Glendale Y. M. C. A. building before the community, the following members being named: O. M. Newby, chairman; and C. W. Ingledue, G. W. Hobson, M. P. Harrison and Frank Parr.

New Stars Named

The following new "spizzerinktum" stars were named: Jud Shepard, F. B. Mattice and A. T. Cowan, red; and Rev. C. A. Cole, M. P. Harrison, W. F. Tower, John T. Cate, T. A. Wright and Ed N. Radke, blue.

The executive committee scored heaviest in last night's report, bringing in an additional $6119.40 since last Friday. Second came the Live Y-ers, with $1295; third, the TNT Gang, with $950; fourth, the Helpmates and the Go-Getters, tied with $670 each; and last, the Bear-Cats, with $625.

Daily Greeting To News Readers

He knows that we need the cloud, and that a bright sky without a speck or shadow would not suit us in our passage to the kingdom. Therefore He draws the cloud above us, not once in a lifetime, but many times. But, lest the gloom should appal us, He braids the cloud with sunshine—nay, makes it the object which gleams to our eye with the very fairest hues of heaven. —Anonymous.

EXTRAVAGANCE AND PROSPERITY

Extravagance in any circle of people is unwise, for it breeds so many habits that are detrimental to the individual and to society. But, so many people get the mistaken idea that money spent for anything beyond the mere necessities of life is wasted. Many good folk have been shuddering over the news item that a Long Island millionaire spent $250,000 on a sumptuous entertainment for the Prince of Wales, as though this sum of money had been burned or destroyed. At first thought it would seem that the host and his guests had consumed this money. But, think of those who received a portion of it—caterers, cooks, waiters, decorators, florists, grocers, butchers and bakers and workmen of all kinds benefited more largely than the guests who were present. Even a few poverty stricken bootleggers may have received a little of the coin, but this is a mere guess.

Spending money that one can afford to spend helps to make prosperity. Hanging on to it like grim death does not benefit the owner or the rest of the world.

Speaking of another phase of extravagance in American life, the Minneapolis Journal says:

"A segment of the American public contributed more than three-quarters of a million dollars to be divided between a negro fist-fight, a wild man from the Pampas of Argentina and the canny manager who brought them together in the ring. And the lion's share of this huge sum went to the promoter, the man who is clever at the game of taking it away from the public. What shall be said of a public that pays a purveyor of pugilistic amusement $800,000 for a single night of it?"

In the case of the Long Island millionaire, one man spent his money and a large number of people benefited. In the other case a great many people spent their money (and no doubt in many cases it was ill-afforded) for the benefit of a few. Which case was real extravagance and most blameworthy?

HEROES OF THE AIR

Had any of the round-the-world fliers lost their lives in their epoch-making flight the whole country would have mourned, yet the deaths of two martyrs of the air a few months ago went almost unnoticed, although their contribution to the world's knowledge of aeronautics was as great or greater than that of the boys who circumaviated the globe.

Dr. C. Leroy Meisinger of the United States Weather Bureau and Lieut. James T. Neely of the Army Air Service perished while making a scientific balloon flight. Dr. Meisinger was a brilliant student of aeronautical meterology. He had made wonderful strides in constructing upper air weather charts, which were of inestimable value to the aviator, and it was to secure further information needed in the construction of these charts that the two men planned a series of balloon flights under various weather conditions and in different sections of a general storm area. It was during the hazardous tenth flight in a thunder storm that the two men perished.

To the world fliers is due every honor that they have received, and more. But, let us not forget to applaud those who dare to do the less spectacular things, but hazardous, and of just as much benefit to mankind. A writer says, "While the country is applauding the aviators who have flown around the world, it may be well to remember the air-mail pilots who, all of them together, fly 6000 miles every day in bad weather as well as good."

GOOD BUSINESS OUTLOOK

Financial experts declare that business throughout the United States is looking up, due to the increase in the purchasing power of the farmer, and with the hope of wider markets for his products gained through a settlement of Europe's economic affairs. The market has registered a rise in industrial stocks throughout the summer. Stocks of goods throughout the country are low and bank credits have reached high levels. There are large quantities of loanable money available to finance any industrial boom that may materialize.

Trade benefits to the United States accruing from the stabilization of European economic conditions, it is predicted, will more than offset the competition in certain industries and compensate for the flood of German-made goods the world must receive if that country is to pay her reparations. Secretary Mellon reports that German industrialists are already negotiating for the purchase of raw materials in America, and our bankers are extending commercial credits which will soon dwarf in amount the $200,000,000 loan made directly to the German government.

Authorities on labor conditions report that factories will soon be working to capacity and railroads breaking shipping records, and that there is little unemployment. There is a big harvest, especially of wheat, and altogether a nation-wide prosperity is indicated.

HIGHWAY TRANSPORTATION

Convinced that highway transportation is to become an important feature of our national life, Charles M. Schwab, steel king, has become the head of the Six-Wheel company which will manufacture a new type of motorbus and truck. The principal weight of the vehicle is carried on four rear wheels, assembled in one unit like the truck of a railway car. Power and brakes are applied to all of the four wheels. The steering is done by the two wheels in the front. It is believed that this arrangement of the wheels will allow large loads to be carried without excessive wear on the highway.

The conservation of the roadbed is one of the great problems of highway transportation and an ever increasing use of the truck and motorbus will have to be taken into consideration in road building from now on.

FOR THE WOMEN OF THE WORLD

The announcement of the formation, in Stockholm, Sweden, of the International Women's club, comprised of a large group of influential women representing the chief women's clubs and organizations of Sweden, is significant. A permanent home and international reading matter will be provided, and it is expected that members will be drawn from all parts of the world.

Some one has said that when the women of the nations understand each other there will be no more war. As a French proverb has it, "To understand all is to forgive all." In the movement for universal and permanent peace, this international club of women may be destined to play an important part.

Doing sixty miles an hour is so thrilling. Yes, really I agree, it's simply killing.

AS KIPLING SAYS, THAT'S ANOTHER STORY!

The Heart of the House

By DR. FRANK CRANE

I love the Spanish idea of building a house.

They do not put the garden out in front, as Americans do, nor behind, as do the English, but in the center of the house.

It looks as if they built the garden first and the house around it.

This seems to me to be the proper appreciation of the value of outdoors. Only when one has enclosed a little bit of it does it seem his own. It means a bit of earth more private than in any other way.

Perhaps this form of building may be applicable only to warm climates. But every climate is warm at some time of the year and if one is going to be outdoors at all, how much better to be able to sit in the seclusion of one's own walls, in one's own garden.

This gives the house an aloofness that is exceptional. It is self-contained.

One gets the impression that a court full of flowers and trees is the heart, or gracious soul, where it might be possible to live beautifully as one could never live in an English suburban villa with its terrible uniformity and complete lack of imagination.

The garden in the center of the house gives an opportunity to sit outdoors and, at the same time, an opportunity for privacy. There is a delightfulness about sitting or dining under the open sky that one cannot find under any roof and the garden in the house supplies us not only with a bit of ground that is our own but a bit of sky that is ours.

It is characteristic of America, and all our western civilization, to confine most of the attention to the house one lives in.

It would be better if the garden space were considered an integral part of the residence and if the garden were enclosed in the house.

Perhaps such things are the result of instincts that lie deeper in us than we imagine, but very probably it is the result of custom and the present custom of having the garden added as an adjunct to the house is one more honored in the breach than in the observance.

We do not live enough out of doors. Probably this is because of our unfavorable climate, but there is many a day and many a night which would better be spent out of doors than in the house.

Horoscope

This is a day of unusually sinister planetary direction, according to astrology. Mercury, Uranus, Neptune and Mars are all in malefic aspect.

During this sway the mind may be inclined to melancholy and every one who is wise will shut out all destructive thoughts.

Financial conditions are likely to assume a most discouraging aspect while Mercury is in evil place, but they who are wise will know that they must have positive and negative periods of prosperity.

Nervous diseases probably will be alarmingly prevalent and there may be an increase of insanity. Suicides will increase greatly in number.

Discoveries in the psychical realm will reveal the power of suggestion now merely suspected, the seers declare, and there will be a ban on the publication of criminal news.

Persistently signs indicating movements of military and naval forces are read in the heavens.

This is not a fortunate time for starting on journeys by land or sea, and aviators should be especially careful.

Under this sway there may be a tendency to conceal facts and even to misrepresent. Truth is more easily crushed to earth this month than at any time this year.

Clubs and organizations of various aims are warned that the forecast for associations of every sort indicate much discord. Envyings and jealousy will be prevalent, especially in the west.

According to ancient lore this should be an auspicious rule under which to engage men servants.

Many honors surely will come to women, even though the stars have indicated that men will combine to thwart their high ambitions.

Again there is indication of troublesome problems in our international relations. A foreign power will be bitterly antagonistic during the coming winter.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of meetings with many good friends in the coming year. Young women will have offers of marriage. Financial matters should be satisfactory.

Children born on this day may be rash and headstrong, original and enterprising. These subjects of Libra are usually very successful in life. Many attain great wealth.

Today's Poem

INDIAN SUMMER

These are the days when birds
come back,
A very few, a bird or two,
To take a backward look.

These are the days when skies put on
The old, old sophistries of June—
A blue and gold mistake.

Oh, fraud that cannot cheat the bee,
Almost thy plausibility
Induces my belief.

Till ranks of seeds their witness bear,
And softly through the altered
air
Hurries a timid leaf!

Oh, sacrament of summer days,
Oh, last communion in the haze,
Permit a child to join.

Thy sacred emblems to partake,
Thy consecrated bread to break,
Taste thine immortal wine!

—Emily Dickinson.

GRATITUDE

Dear Doctor—I wish to thank you very much for the medicine which you sent my uncle last month. When his will was read he left all his money to me.

HONEST JOHN

"Position wanted," reads an advertisement in a Shanghai newspaper. "A young Chinese with 4 years' experience in English seeks place as a junior clerk. Salary no objection."

BEHIND THE BARS

After an exhibition in a cage with an unusually fierce lion the trainer said to the manager of the circus:

"This is going to be the death of me yet. I can feel it in my bones."

"You're not losing your nerve, are you, Dan?" You're not afraid of that lion?" inquired the manager, anxiously.

"Afraid of the lion?" snorted Dan in disgust. "I should say not. But those cages are the worst places on earth for drafts, and some day I'll take cold in one of them and it will be the death of me."

Who's Who

Close to three score years ago a family of plain, simple folk came to New York from Strabane, County Tyrone, Ireland that they might give their children the opportunities held out to them in word from America.

One of these children, a small, eager lad then, was William E. Knox.

That same immigrant boy has just been elected president of the American Bankers Association.

When his parents found a home in New York, young Knox was sent to school as long as funds would permit. Then he got a "job." His first one was with a publishing house. He felt the future held little for him financially there and, a few years later became a junior clerk with the Bowery Savings bank. That was thirty-nine years ago. He worked his way up, step by step to the presidency.

Knox admits that no high ideals caused him to seek the job at the Bowery bank. "I found I could get two or three dollars more a week there so applied for the job. I had 10 times as much fun when I was outside, at a window, waiting directly on people, as I have now," he said recently.

Making Presidents

By H. Irving King

IN 1836

Jackson's second administration was as tumultuous as his first. He designated Martin Van Buren, then secretary of state, as his successor. The Democrats hesitated about calling a convention; but Jackson ordered a convention and one was called. It nominated Van Buren unanimously for president and for vice-president — Virginia dissenting—it nominated Richard M. Johnson of Kentucky. With the second election of Jackson the National Republican party had followed the Federalist party into the limbo of discarded things. The opposition to the Democrats was now composed of heterogeneous groups, united in nothing except antagonism to Jackson and all his works. Among these groups was the Whig party, destined to play the part of Aaron's rod and swallow up all the others. It was decided to hold no "anti" convention; but to support in each state the candidate most popular there, such electors as should be thus chosen to unite, afterwards, on a presidential choice. The most prominent opposition candidates were Hugh L. White of Tennessee, William Henry Harrison of Ohio, and Daniel Webster of Massachusetts. The nomination of White by the legislature of Tennessee, Jackson's own state, was regarded by Jackson and his followers as political treason. White, a prominent lawyer, had been in the Senate since 1825 and was leader of that body. His name was familiar on the tongues of men in the first part of the last century and he was widely known as "The Cato of the United States." Harrison, son of Benjamin Harrison the "signer," had been governor of territories, had sat in the House and been senator from Ohio. But his greatest renown was as a soldier for his victory of Tippecanoe in the War of 1812. When the votes came to be counted after a campaign of vilification in which not only the public but the private character of all the candidates was bitterly assailed, Van Buren got 170 votes to Harrison's 73, White's 26, Webster's 14 and 11 votes for Willie P. Magnum of North Carolina. Not commanding a majority the opposition did not unite on a candidate. In the popular vote Van Buren had a small majority, receiving 762,673 of the little over a million and a half cast. Virginia refusing to give her electoral vote to Johnson he failed of a majority in the electoral college and, the election of vice-president was thrown into the Senate—which promptly elected Johnson. That he had served in either the House or the Senate since 1807, is now forgotten, but should be remembered from the fact that he is the only vice-president ever elected who was not chosen by the electoral college.

Need of Schools In Northwest Discussed

The Glendale Foothill Improvement association held a meeting at the Grand View school last night, the meeting being directed by Alex Mitchell, president. The meeting was preceded by music and much time was given to the discussion of the Civic Center and the association went on record as favoring it.

The rapid growth of the northwest section, which has more than tripled the growth of the schools in other sections of Glendale, was brought up and the need of immediate action by the school boards to relieve the congested conditions was dwelt upon. Special mention was made of the danger to children going to the Central avenue school, having to cross Pacific, from traffic and flood waters. A cordial invitation is extended to all property owners to join the association and work for Glendale in a body, as well as for the northwest section. Meetings of this organization are held the first Tuesday of each month.

Wood, secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce.

The delegates are not only welcomed to Southern California by the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, but an invitation is extended to all realtors in Pasadena attending the state meet to visit Glendale. The letter follows:

Their automobiles were gaily decorated, and pamphlets, cards and bills exploiting their respective cities were copiously distributed as the realtors rode through Glendale. An escort of motorcycle officers was supplied by the Glendale police department, meeting the caravans at the city limits on the south and bidding them farewell at the eastern city limits.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—The thirteenth annual convention of the American Association of Port Authorities will open in Los Angeles next Monday. A complete inspection of Los Angeles and Long Beach harbors will be made Tuesday and the week's program will include visits to San Diego and Catalina.

King C. Keene, Venice clairvoyant, has appealed to the sheriff's office to find the writer of "poison pen" letters who is using his name. The professor reports receiving two letters himself, one signed "I. B. Noey" and the other "Emma Palmer," according to Deputy Sheriffs Heller and Johnson, who are investigating. Although the letters are written on a typewriter they believe a woman is perpetrator of the plot in an effort to discredit Keene.

As he stepped from a German club at Ninth and Santee streets this morning two thugs waylaid and robbed Albert Noftz of 326 South Hill street, he reported to the police. Scores of passersby were in the vicinity, but failed to note the robbery, in which $168 was taken.

BIG SHOWING IS MADE BY GLENDALE

Members of Realty Board Boost for 'Home Town' At State Convention

were read and included the following speakers: Fred R. Caldwell, Oakland; O. A. Vickrey, Los Angeles; Ben F. Wright, Monterey; Everett A. White, Santa Ana; Chris R. Jones, Sacramento.

A telegram was read from Santa Rosa stating that John T. Summers, 70-year-old representative, was dangerously ill in his northern home and a moment of silent prayer was given by the assembled realtors.

Glendale Makes Noise

Glendale caps and whistles were much in evidence at the first mass meeting. Practically every one of the local realtors was seated on the south side of the hall and the purple skull caps with the gold letters were clearly visible all over the auditorium. At the first signal for applause whistles loudly shrieked the air and Glendale was seen to have as large a representation as any of the boards.

Singing by the famed glee club from the Oakland Realty board added to the morning program and occasionally music from orchestras and bands from boards just arriving at the convention. Beverly Hills, with its seven piece orchestra and tribe of wild Indians provided a most original stunt when they marched through the auditorium and sang Indian songs, scattering feathers from their hats as they went.

Visitors See Glendale

The first official greetings to the northern realtors was extended to the huge northern caravan of visitors yesterday at 5 o'clock when a delegation from the Glendale Realty board met the 300 automobiles at Burbank and escorted them through the city. After an hour spent in viewing the residential and business district of Glendale the realtors left for Pasadena to register at the Maryland. L. H. Myers had charge of the routing of the caravan here and the realtors were shown the main parts of the city.

In Local Delegation

Those who were registered from the Glendale Realty board included: J. T. Burse, J. H. Boland, J. E. Barney, B. F. Bolen, B. F. Bliss, Dietrich Realty Co., Earl Realty Co., J. A. Endicott, Finlay & Preston, J. B. Galvin, C. B. Guthrie, S. S. Gilhuly, Peter Hanson, W. P. Hope, Martha Hunter, J. A. Hunneman, W. A. Horn, E. P. Hayward, D. C. Casselman, Hamlin & Hepburn, Hart Realty Co., Ingledue Realty Co., Leanore I. Jones, W. B. Kirk, Roy D. King, Lehigh Investment Co., J. F. McClish, T. H. Menk, G. D. McDill, L. H. Myers, W. T. McPherson, W. P. McMullen, Chas. E. Murphey, O. M. Newby, Jas. W. Pearson, Jas. M. Rhoades, S. Robinson, Royalties & Kimlin, R. R. Race, Suburban-Johnson, Glendale Realty Co., Viola Sayre, E. L. Schuyler, R. N. Stryker, Mrs. M. L. Tight, W. L. Truitt, W. L. Twining, W. Frazier, Anna Veineman, L. H. Wilson, A. H. Voelker, C. I. Wernette, Frank Guillemin, Max Woods, L. C. Cornett, W. E. Sawyer, James H. Bolen.

Pose for Pictures

Pictures of the assembled realtors were taken at noon following the general luncheon in the main dining room. Everett A. White, vice-president of the state association, presided at this meeting. An address by Dr. R. B. KleinSmid, president of the University of Southern California, was also a feature of the afternoon program.

Tonight a general session will be held in the patio of the hotel and three-minute addresses on experiences with the license act will be given by eight prominent realtors who are fresh from the field of operations. William H. Aiken of Los Angeles will also discuss the license act.

Program Tonight

Following the dinner tonight at 8 o'clock, E. T. Elliot, champion chess player of the Fullerton board will meet all comers in the lobby of the Maryland hotel. A concert by the San Francisco Realtors' orchestra will also be given.

The president's reception is scheduled to start at 9:30 o'clock, to be followed by a grand ball and stunts by the local boards. Presentations will then be made by a number of talented show people to amuse the visitors.

Various discussions among groups will be carried out at headquarters, announced as follows: Business, commercial and industrial, grill room; home builders and subdividers, palm room; country property division, gold room.

BIG LEGION PARADE IS PLANNED

Preliminary Arrangements Are Made for Armistice Day Event by Workers

Plans for the Armistice day parade which will be staged in Glendale November 11 were outlined at the meeting of the Armistice day parade committee held last night at the Wilsonavenue school, representatives of twenty-two organizations being present. Joe Wilson, commander of Glendale post No. 127, American Legion, presided at the meeting, explaining why it was being held.

Colonel Hanigan of the United States army is chairman of the parade committee and others on the committee are J. D. Frazer and J. W. Everington. Colonel Hanigan recommended that no floats be entered in the parade from clubs here in Glendale, but that the only float in the parade be from the American Legion and that organizations participating in the parade carry a banner representing some article from the constitution. The committee will assign the part they are to represent and also determine the size of the banner.

Marchers Limited

Each organization will be privileged to enter a unit of twenty members, each person carrying an American flag. The colors of each organization will be massed at the head of the column and will be carried by members of the organization. The American Legion will furnish the color guard.

Automobiles in the parade will be decorated with bunting, no flags being used on them. It is the plan of the committee to have the line of march short, starting on time, and at the close of the parade a speaker will deliver a short talk on some article of the United States constitution. The schools will have patriotic services in class rooms, and only units of twenty pupils from each of the intermediate and high school grades will be entered in the parade.

Will Issue Orders

The general order for the day will be issued, while information regarding further details will appear in the newspapers at a later date and sent to the secretary of each organization. One week prior to the parade, a special order containing the assignments of each unit in the parade, time of starting, and line of march will be mailed to all organizations taking part.

The committee recommends that the merchants devote a part of their window display to the American colors with placards representing some article of the constitution.

List of Representatives

The following is a list of the organizations represented at the meeting and the representatives of the organizations present:

Diet And Health

By LULU HUNT PETERS, M. D.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS

He's 84 Years Young

"Dear Doctor Peters:—Your article on insomnia in our paper interests me as I have a counting scheme, accompanied with motions of arms or of legs to help draw off the excess blood from the head, and have been helped very much by it when I have allowed my thoughts to dwell too long on one subject.

"I am in good health and am thought to be a 'wonder' by my friends. I am just about to enter the last half of my eighty-fourth year. I have worked out for myself a diet. My best meal is breakfast: It consists of grapefruit, oatmeal, two eggs in some form, with a slice or two of toast or two doughnuts—not crullers, if you recognize a difference.

"For lunch, when at home, I drink as much as I care to of a quart bottle of milk and as much as I choose of a quarter-of-a-pound cake of sweet chocolate. This is a simple lunch, but one I enjoy while reading a newspaper or an interesting book. I use little meat, sometimes none, and eat very little of most vegetables. I don't care for them. I eat dessert when I think it will be what I like and not harmful. Unless away from home, as a rule, I practically never use tea or coffee, taking milk and hot water (together) morning, noon and night. I smoke rarely.

"I am well and work in my flower garden hours at a time. I read in the following modern languages: English, German, French, Spanish, Portuguese (rarely) Dutch, Italian.

I referred to the difference between doughnuts and kruller, or cruller, as in English. The difference is not material, as they are practically alike. But there is a difference in form. The cruller is twisted; the doughnut is round with a hole in it. "Cruller" is seldom heard in New England. There is an interesting etymology for "cruller." New York and New Jersey were settled by the Dutch, as we know, and in Dutch I find there is a verb 'krullen' meaning 'to curl' or 'to twist,' and a kruller would be a person or a thing that twists or curls. So naturally, in New York and neighborhood, 'cruller' is the natural name.

"I should be glad to see some comment on or criticism of my diet.—F. W. E."

Isn't that an interesting letter? As you are in good health at 84, Mr. E., we certainly have to conclude that your diet must be good for you. Eating but one hearty meal a day, taking plenty of milk, omitting tea and coffee, taking but little meat, are habits that are good habits.

If I were to suggest any change (and I don't know that I should for you), I would say more vegetables, especially the green leaf vegetables—spinach, lettuce, etc., and part of them raw.

The need for food in the elderly person is reduced considerably from what is needed during the active adult life, because there is a slowing down of the internal activities; that is, the body fires do not burn so briskly. Naturally the external activities are reduced also. Sherman states that from 10 to 30 per cent reduction from that needed in early middle life should gradually be made in the food intake of the aged. If they continue to eat as they did while younger, there is bound to be a disturbance. Your habit of working in the flower garden for hours at a time is undoubtedly one of the reasons that accounts for your being so well, and the habit of keeping up your mental activities keeps you young mentally and helps physically.

It is inspiring to get a letter like yours, and I thank you for writing.

SORE EYES—

Mrs. O.—You must see an eye specialist, not one who simply fits glasses. Are you having liberal amounts of the foods containing the growth and antipthalmic Vitamin A? (Cid liver oil, cream, butter, milk, egg yolks and spinach rank highest). Get an eye ointment, yellow oxide of mercury (one-half to one per cent) and rub on the lids at night.

Tomorrow—Answers To Mothers.

My Dear Followers:—When sending for material which we offer you please remember to enclose a stamped envelope bearing your full name and address. The pamphlet on reducing and gaining is the only one for which you must enclose four cents in stamps extra. Address your letters to me in care of this paper. Make them as brief as possible, not over 200 words, and type or write them legibly with ink. Please sign your name as evidence of good faith—we will not use it in any way. Remember it is impossible for me to diagnose for you or to answer you personally. I appreciate very much the beautiful letters you send me and regret it is impossible to give you individual advice. The questions you ask will be answered in the column as soon as possible; if they are of general interest. Don't forget the s. a. s. e. if you expect me to send you the information I have offered.

'Most Beautiful Woman'

Smile with SENORITA EVA PLATT. She has been voted the most beautiful woman in Mexico, in a contest conducted by a newspaper. Incidentally, she is a niece of Uncle Sam, for she is related to Tom Platt, former New York senator. She will be queen of a fiesta.

Elsie: "How are varnish stains removed from a white dress?"

Answer: Saturate with turpentine, rub the hands, then sponge with either chloroform or alcohol. Wash as usual.

Inquirer: "How can I kill wasps in my attic?"

Answer: To destroy wasps place on the attic beams, or on window sills or shelves, saucers of water containing one teaspoon each of sugar and formalin (formalin is a POISON, so do not leave it where children or pets can get at it). The wasps will eat the mixture and die.

Mrs. C.: "Someone recently asked for Sour Milk Pancakes: Mix and sift two and one-half cups of flour, one and one-fourth teaspoon of soda and one-half teaspoon of salt, then add about two cups sour milk and one beaten egg."

Answer: Thank you for this excellent recipe.

Old Housekeeper: "There are some terrible dents in my woodwork, due to renting the house to a family with children. What can be done?"

Answer: The dents can be overcome if they are the kind which come from a blow, leaving the fibres intact. In this case, if the surface is solid, not veneered, cover the dent with small pieces of blotting paper dipped in hot water and apply the tip of a heated poker to the topmost piece of paper; repeat as often as is necessary to cause the compressed wood fibres to swell to their former dimensions. If, however, the dents are places where pieces of the wood have been gouged out, the only thing you can do is to fill the smaller cavities with stick-shellac of the same color. (You must hire a cabinet maker to fit pieces of new wood into the larger ones.)

Annoyed: "I do try to keep my house new-looking, but my maid has just begun to mar the woodwork of the front door around the brass doorplate, when she polishes the plate. What can be done?"

Answer: To protect the woodwork surrounding a door plate, have a tinsmith cut you a piece of tin the exact size of the plate and slip this over the plate while cleaning. Or you could use heavy cardboard instead of the tin, but cardboard would have to be renewed frequently whereas the tin would last indefinitely.

Inexperienced: "How are fruit stains removed from one's hands?"

Answer: Moisten cornmeal with vinegar and rub this on the stains. Or else grease your hands with lard and then wash with soap and water.

Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital

Special Correspondence

Dr. A. W. Truman, medical superintendent of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital, accompanied by J. A. Burden, general manager, Dr. C. C. Landis and Elder A. G. Daniels left last night for Des Moines, Iowa, to attend the biennial of the general conference of Seventh-day Adventist churches. The convention is from October 14 to 23 so the representatives of the local institution will probably be absent from Glendale until late in the month.

Miss Ruth Linrud, talented harpist and vocalist from Los Angeles, entertained last night in the parlors of the Glendale Sanitarium and Hospital building. So enjoyable were her vocal and instrumental numbers that the local Seventh-day Adventist church is hoping to secure her for a return engagement in Glendale.

Why America Must Have More Paved Highways

Almost every section of the United States is confronted by a traffic problem.

Month by month this problem is becoming more and more serious.

Hundreds of cars pass a given point every hour on many of our state and county roads. Down-town city streets are jammed with traffic.

Think, too, how narrow many of our roads are, and how comparatively few paved highways there are in proportion to the steadily increasing number of cars.

If the motor vehicle is to continue giving the economic service of which it is capable, we must have more Concrete highways and widen those near large centers of population.

Every citizen should discuss highway needs of his community with his local authorities.

Your highway officials will do their part if given your support.

Why postpone meeting this pressing need?

An early start means early relief.

REPUBLICANS UNRULY IN COLORADO

Ku Klux Klan Is Proving Big Issue on State Ticket; Coolidge to Win

By DAVID LAWRENCE
Special Correspondent of the Glendale Evening News. Copyright, 1924

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 8.—What Chairman Butler, of the Republican national committee says about the coalition of the Democrats and La Follette supporters, is partly true in Colorado, but here as in other states the movement is a natural one based on local issues and is not the result of any organized plot or political strategy.

In Colorado, for instance, thousands of Democrats will vote for La Follette because they originally wanted McAdoo and Davis isn't radical enough for them. But all these votes plus all the normal strength of the radicals in this state, would not be enough to give the Wisconsin Senator the electoral vote here.

President Coolidge will carry Colorado not perhaps by as big a majority as did Hardi: in 192', but by a substantial figure. Democrats who are in a position to know the situation, concede that the state is lost though they are really working harder here for Davis than in other Western states and they will continue to battle for their standard-bearer to the end.

K. K. K. Big Issue

The presidential race is really of secondary importance in Colorado. The state is rocked by a factional fight in which the Ku Klux Klan has, as usual, upset the equanimity of the community. The Klan is behind the Republican State and Senatorial tickets Governor Sweet, Democrat, running for re-election on an anti-Klan platform, is making enthusiastic speeches for John W. Davis.

Two years ago, when the writer was in Colorado, the conservatives were worried about Sweet and were engaged in a strenuous effort to defeat him. He was supposed to be radical, socialistic, and generally of a disturbing disposition.

But the situation today is changed. Scores of Republican business men say openly they will vote for Sweet. It isn't that they like him any better, though he hasn't proved in office as radical as it was thought he would be, but the Ku Klux Klan taint on the Republican state ticket is too great for many Republicans.

Committeeman Flops

When the newspaper owned by Clarence Hamlin, Republican National Committeeman, and a regular of the most regular kind, says editorially that a man would not lose his standing as a Republican this year if he failed to vote for the Republican state ticket, it is some indication of what is going on throughout the state.

After arguing th t many Democrats of pro-Klan sympathy entered the Republican gubernatorial and senatorial primaries and succeeded in nominating men of Klan affiliations Mr. Hamlin's newspaper, The Colorado Springs Gazette, remarks:

"So far as concerns this result, the primary, many Republicans are of the opinion that, under the circumstances, support of the head of the state ticket is in no sense a test of party allegiance or of loyalty to the party's presidential nominee."

Curiously enough, President Coolidge is not affected by the Klan fight. The men in charge of his campaign are scrupulously refraining from mixing him up in it. It is true that the president has not denounced the Klan in so many words, as has John W. Davis, but the people here, nevertheless, do not think for a moment that Mr. Coolidge is in sympathy with the Klan in any respect, so the issue disappears as far as the national ticket is concerned.

Senatorial Fight

What the Klan fight may mean, however, is the election of two Democrats to the United States Senate. Senator Phipps, Republican, is having a hard fight for re-election for the long term. He had the support of the Klan in the campaign prior to the primaries, though there are rumors now that this endorsement has been withdrawn.

Senator Alvah Adams, Democrat, who was appointed to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Senator Nicholson, is not involving himself in the Klan fight, but is making his contest on progressive and radical differences between himself and Senator Phipps.

As for the short term, Rice R. Means, an avowed member of the Klan, who is conspicuous in their meetin s on the mountain top, is opposed by Morris Shaffroth, son of the late Senator Shaffroth, a popular figure in Colorado. Means has a creditable war record, and so has Shaffroth. It is a close race. Should Means be elected, he probably w.ll be the first avowed member of the Klan to sit in the United States Senate, and it would not be surprising if a controversy arose as to his fitness to hold office.

Political Pulse

Editor's Note—This is the first of a series of articles written by A. S. Hall of The Glendale Evening News editorial staff, dealing with the political situation in Central and Middle Western states, in the South and Southwest. Material for this series was gathered by Mr. Hall on a tour of 6000 miles through Arizona, Nevada, Utah, Wyoming, Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas, Colorado, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico. The second article of the series will appear in The Glendale Evening News tomorrow and will be: A Whole State on the Political Fence.

1—CARRYING THE CAMPAIGN INTO THE COURTS

By A. S. HALL
Of The Evening News Staff.

Political campaigns, according to the rules of the game laid down in the years of our forefathers, and more or less faithfully followed in the period that has passed since those memorial, history-making days, have been waged, for the most part in the industrial centers, the agricultural districts and the cities.

Seekers of votes and public favors at the hands of the ballot casters carried their campaigns hopefully into the centers where they felt the majority were with them, and fearfully into the places where opposition was the strongest.

Illinois, recent observations throughout that state reveal, is not playing politics according to these rules. The national campaign is a secondary issue in Illinois, interest in the coming election being centered about the these rules. The national campaign is being waged in the courts of the state.

Judge Opposes Small

Len Small, the incumbent, who is seeking re-election on the Republican ticket as governor, holds the center of the limelight in this strange campaign. On the opposite side of the stage, seeking to grab the calcium, is another jurist, Judge Norman L. Jones of Carrollton, Democratic nominee. Judge Jones, when occupying the bench, sits in the principal branch of the circuit court of Sangamon county at Springfield, Small's executive home town, and on several occasions has been called upon to give decisions where various angles of the famous case of the State of Illinois vs. Len Small, et al, relative to the asserted misuse of state funds, have been before him.

This state fund proposition bobbed up again early in the campaign, and right when it appeared that Small would not have to move back to his home in Kankakee, suit was started against him in the court of Master of Chancery Charles G. Briggle at Springfield. It was called a treasury interest accounting suit, and went back to the days when Small was state treasurer.

The Democrats disclaim any and all responsibility of the matter being brought up again, and especially on the eve of Small's campaign, but the leaders of the Republican party in the state contend that it was revived to discredit Small in his race for re-election.

Recalls Tragedy

Throughout the legal battle that has become a campaign issue has been heard and brought in scraps of evidence offered at the trial held several years ago in Waukegan, Ill., when Small was acquitted of embezzlement charges. To many it recalls the tragic ending of those tedious sessions, for Small's feeling of joy at being vindicated was soon overshadowed by grief. Only a few hours after the Small family had returned to their Kankakee home for a rest, Mrs. Small died, the trial and its attending worries bringing on a breakdown from which she never rallied.

When the first effort was made to revive the suit in the state courts, legal lights learned it would have to be heard in a chancery court first, and the master in chancery should determine whether the case should be tried in a circuit court. Democratic leaders looked upon this move as one in their favor, since the hearing in chancery court would have to come in Springfield, the political center of the state. For the circuit court case, Small could easily have taken a change of venue away from the capital city.

"Small will win," is the laconic statement of George Marney of Springfield, who knows more politicians and is in closer touch with political happenings than any other man in the state. "This court battle looked bad for Small for a while, but he will win, and when he does, the whole Republican ticket will go over. It may be a stiff battle, but it will take more than suits in courts to stop Small and his machine from carrying the state."

Interest Light

Regarding the presidential campaign, which has been forced into the background by the fight for governorship, indications point to victory for Coolidge and Dawes. There is not the interest in the national campaign in Illinois that was noticed four years ago, and only a small fraction of the interest of eight years ago is displayed today.

La Follette is winning some support from the miners of the state, according to reports uncovered in the coal belt, but not enough to cause any worry in the Republican ranks. The percentage of miners' votes which will swing to La Follette is said to be very small, following the split between John Lewis, national president of the United Mine Workers of America, whose home is in Springfield, and Frank Farrington, head of the Illinois miners, on La Follette.

Davis will run a poor second in the presidential race in Illinois. For years the Democrats in Illinois have been in the minority and 1924 will see the rule of previous campaigns as regards the Democrats still in effect.

Heavy Women's Vote

No small factor in the November election in Illinois will be the number of votes cast by the women. In 1920 Illinois women led the other forty-seven states for percentage of eligible women voters going to the polls, and the writer learned that women are taking even a greater interest in the election this year. The women will not cast as heavy a vote for state and local candidates as they will in the presidential race.

Chicago, long regarded as the political hotbed of Illinois, has lost a great deal of its fire, observations show, since the passing of that maker and breaker of politicians—"Big Boss" Sullivan. In the state battle, Small will not do so well in Chicago as he might have done had the campaign been waged "back of the stockyards" instead of in the courts, for one of the outstanding points of the case is the asserted mythical "Grant Park bank" which Small claimed was the recipient of the state funds. However, despite the loss of Sullivan, and the dethroning several years ago of William Hale Thompson, for many years mayor of Chicago, Small will slip through without any trouble.

Speed Up Railroad Freight Traffic at Terminals In Eastern Cities

By J. C. ROYLE
Special Correspondent of the Glendale Evening News. Copyright, 1924

NEW YORK Oct., 8.—Store door delivery and collection of the freight by the railroads through the use of motor trucks is coming inevitably in the larger centers of the United States.

This is the belief expressed by George H. Kelly, treasurer of the White Motor Co., of Cleveland, large manufacturer of trucks. This development, Mr. Kelly added, for the time beng would mean the use of fewer, rather than more trucks. Eventually, however, it would promote the increased use of these vehicles.

"Time and railroad equipment are too valuable to permit continuation of present terminal delays and congestion," he said. "Railroad cars will be emptied promptly, their contents sorted into trucks and the cars returned to main line traffic. But temporarily this will not add to the number of trucks in use. John Smith & Co. and Joseph Jones & Co. will not send trucks down to the freight yards for a barrel of sugar each and hold them idle there until the sugar is unloaded. Instead, one truck will take on fifteen or twenty barrels of sugar and deliver them to fifteen or twenty firms.

Eliminates Tieups

"There is no question that the general use of the motor truck in business and industry is continuing but I believe that this increase will be healthy and gradual rather than sudden and immediate. It must follow the improvement of highways and streets and solving of traffic congestion problems to be stable and permanent and give best results."

The value of the use of trucks in obviating railroad terminal congestion has been thoroughly proved in Cincinnati, according to traffic experts. Trucks now are utilized there for transferring freight from one railroad to another.

The trucks used have removable bodies. These bodies are placed by machinery on the freight platforms and goods for a certain destination are sorted into each. When they are loaded the truck chassis is backed up, the body swung into place and the freight transferred to another terminal where the body again is placed on a platform and its contents redistributed to freight cars.

Avoids Delays

By this method, one truck engine and chassis handles many bodies with only one driver and without delay. The process obviates the distribution of freight into trap cars, the switching of such cars over miles of track to reach a destination which may be within a hundred yards of the starting point and reduces train crews in the yards to a minimum.

It is estimated the system has cut the time of delay of freight cars in the Cincinnati yards from over three days to less than one day and has materially reduced the cost involved as well as expedited delivery of goods.

One of the most important developments of truck service, according to Mr. Kelly, will be in the handling of less than carload freight over short hauls from large terminals.

Round Trip 30 Days

In general, effort is made to schedule traffic so that each truck will be able to make one round trip a day and 12 miles an hour is about the limit of speed to be expected of loaded vehicles under ordinary conditions.

As a result of the new methods of handling freight and cars, the average time of fruit refrigerator cars for California to the Atlantic seaboard and back has been cut to thirty days and in one or two instances two round trips have been crowded into about forty-five days. Ordinary freight cars do not move so rapidly, but the old system which required six months for a freight car to go from coast to coast and back has gone forever. Nowadays every car's time away from "home" is carefully checked and as a result freight cars are earning about four times as much for the roads as they did formerly.

CHAPTER LXXII

There were tears in Hilary's eyes, and Konrad came to take the chair next to her, and put one arm about her, as he said, in the French that was so much more smooth and fluent than his English:

"My darling, do you not see that you are mistaken in this? While you are here to mother her, to spoil her, she will not need her husband! But when you are gone, across the ocean, happy without her, sending her letters, and little Swedish shining boots for the small one, and a cap from Norway for herself—will she not turn to her good husband? She loves him, you know that. She must make him see it. How can she do so if it is into your arms that the child is laid, and if your kiss is the first, if it is "Sis—Sis—Sis' upon whom she calls? You have given her so much joy and companionship; now you must give her a little suffering, a little loneliness. To a woman, her own man must always come first—this is their child, not yours. In good time——"

"Oh, hush!" she breathed, half-crying and half-laughing, her fingers upon his mouth. And for a long time she rested quietly against his shoulder, while the strengthening sunshine crept into the big, bare, half-furnished dining room, and robbed the fire of its light. "Konrad," she said finally, in a dreamy voice, and without moving, "sometimes I am almost afraid that you are clever!"

"Not clever; cleverness is for women," said Konrad, simply. "But I would be wise, for you. Today and tomorrow I am a bachelor. But on Tuesday I shall have my wife to care for!"

For a wonderful hour they murmured of their plans or were peacefully silent; Hilary's blue eyes were content, she felt wrapped in happiness, deep and satisfying and sweet. She spoke no more of Butterfly; indeed, there was no room for Butterfly in her heart. She was clinging to the last bright hours of girlhood, dreaming of her gentle, fading mother, her tired, discouraged, courageous father, remembering days that seemed to belong to another life, so long ago they were, and longing, as all good daughters must long, for that father and mother to share with her now the happiest hour of the life they had given her.

There were other thoughts, too, thoughts as humanly simple as the man's heart and the woman's that beat so closely together. Hilary's mind went to her bureau, her wardrobe, she saw herself packing the new blue velvet gown that she had never worn. She took down from its shelf a spring hat gallant with cock-feathers. She hesitated over the old suitcase; perhaps she would buy a new one? There were linens soft with embroidery; presents that Butterfly had made her, still in their tissue-paper; there were the frilled blouses that went so smartly with the October suit.

"But shoes, I must have at least two pairs!" she reminded herself, half-aloud.

"What did you say, my heart!" Konrad asked, rousing.

"I was thinking of clothes!" Hilary told him, bursting into sudden delicious laughter. When Etelka and Kasha came downstairs five minutes later, the former protested at finding her guests prosaically busy over the dish-pan. To the piano with them—was there no romance in their souls? But to Hilary and Konrad every breath they drew was of glorious romance.

Upon their return to the city the next day Dora entered into their plans with generous zest; and Hilary found herself in a world of surprises and thrills. The sisters shopped busily on Monday, Butterfly protesting radiantly that she was not tired, that it was doing her good! Hilary's room was a maze of packages when they got home. It was Craig who took her, late on her wedding-eve, to select the most splendid of suitcases, and on the actual day of the wedding she and Kronski bought the plain little gold ring, and scurried about in his car frantically attending to last details.

"The idea is not to give oneself time to think, apparently," Hilary told him. "Butterfly asks me if I am nervous, and Mrs. Spaulding—but oh, look!" The name of Craig's mother reminded her. "Look,!" she said, displaying the great tasselled rope of seedpearls that somehow suited her simple and dignified beauty so well. "And silver, Konrad—her mother's! Not Craig's father's spoons and things: Dora has crates of those. But the Kidder silver, the heaviest I ever saw! And Konrad, the Dwyers——"

There was no end to it. There was no time to do more than exclaim and exult before four o'clock had come; and somehow Hilary was in the frill and the October suit, and had pinned on the groom's gift of violets. The new pumps shone with a liquid splendor, the big furs were ready to be seized, beside the golden monogrammed case, and Hilary's blue eyes shone darkly under the sweep of cock-plumes.

"Absolutely quiet, because of the recent death of Mr. Spaulding's father, and attended only by the members of the immediate family!" Hilary quoted from the notice that would go to the morning papers, to Butterfly. "What do you suppose a wedding that isn't quiet is?"

"Our wedding was sweet," Butterfly said, wistfully, curled in a big chair, and watching Emma and Alice, and the cousins from Hollywood, and Craig's mother, joyously busy about the bride. Tears came to her eyes when Hilary knelt before her for the last kiss before going downstairs. "Oh, Sis, I love you so!" she faltered, clinging with sudden terror to Hilary. "Don't—don't ever stop loving me, will you? I feel as is I were losing you!"

"No tears, little girl," Craig said, coming in to take his wife down. It was not much of an endearment, but it was more than Butterfly had heard from him in many weeks. She looked up at him gratefully, her wet eyes smiling, and as he put his arm about her, Hilary, watching them, said in her heart that Konrad was right.

Craig came back for her; they went downstairs together. Hilary's face was serious, but she sent Dora a little smile when she came into the drawing room, and through the brief ceremony she and Konrad were hand-in-hand.

It was not much after five o'clock that they came quickly down the street steps together; there was a crowd on the sidewalks, importunate reporters, a moving-picture machine. They flashed through them, Craig was holding open the door of the car, and Konrad's driver had his instructions. Hilary gave Craig a last kiss, waved her hand; Konrad sprang in beside her. They were gone.

The March air felt cool to Craig as he went bareheaded back into the house, and the rooms seemed big and dark and empty. The wedding party was still in the drawing room. Rose leaves had fallen on the old rugs, and between the palms and Easter lilies, where Hilary had stood, there was a space looked wide and empty. Banks was still passing coffee and salad; Dora was back in her pillows. Over the big, warmly lighted room there hung a certain flatness, of collapse.

The cousins, departing, said over and over again that he had won a charming wife, and that she was a fortunate girl, too. It seemed only yesterday that she was going about Mount Holly, so pretty and so sweet! They had always thought her interesting, out of the common.

Uncle Wiggily

By HOWARD R. GARIS

UNCLE WIGGILY AND THE CHOCOLATE PUDDING

"There is a chocolate pudding for you in the pantry," said Nurse Jane Fuzzy Wuzzy to Uncle Wiggily one morning.

"A chocolate pudding for me? That is very fine, I'm sure," said the bunny rabbit gentleman. "But I have just eaten a good breakfast of lettuce pancakes with maple sugar sauce sprinkled on them, and, though I am very fond of chocolate pudding, I couldn't eat it now."

"Silly! I don't mean that you are to eat it now," laughed the muskrat lady housekeeper. "I am just telling you it is in the pantry, so you will know where to look for it at lunch time. I am going down town, shopping at the five and six cent store, and I may not be back in time to get your lunch."

"I shall find the chocolate pudding and eat that," said Mr. Longears. "And please don't buy too many diamond pianos at the five and six cent store."

"I'll be careful," promised Nurse Jane, and away she skipped, taking her tail with her. Uncle Wiggily sat in the hollow stump bungalow watching the clock and waiting for noon. For the more he thought of the chocolate pudding the more he wanted to eat it.

"But it would not be polite to take it before noon, which is lunch time," he said to himself.

At last the clock struck twelve and the bunny cried:

"Hurrah! Now for the chocolate pudding!"

"May I have some?" asked a voice at the door.

For a moment Uncle Wiggily thought it might be the bad Weasel coming back after having been hit in the eye with the peach stone, as I told you in the story last night. But when Baby Bunty, the cute little rabbit girl came skiddling in, Uncle Wiggily's heart didn't beat so fast.

"Oh, it's you, is it?" asked Mr. Longears.

"Yes, you hardly knew me, did you?" asked Baby Bunty.

"Why shouldn't I know you?" laughed Uncle Wiggily.

"'Cause—now—I got on my new blue dress. Look!" and Bunty proudly held it out.

"Oh, surely enough you have a new dress, haven't you?" said Uncle Wiggily. "And, truly enough, I hardly knew you. But I'm glad to see you."

"And I'm glad you have a chocolate pudding," said Bunty. "Will you give me some?"

"Of course I will," said Uncle Wiggily. Soon he and Baby Bunty were eating chocolate pudding. But, alas! Oh, dear! All of a sudden Baby Bunty cried:

"Look. I've dropped a big plop of chocolate pudding on my new blue dress." And so she had. There it was—a big daub of brown chocolate on the dress. "How can we get it off?" asked Bunty.

Uncle Wiggily thought for a moment, but he couldn't think of a way to clean the plop of chocolate pudding off Bunty's dress. So he said:

"Let's take a little nap. When we wake up maybe I'll think of a way to clean your dress."

So, Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty went to sleep. And when they slept the Woozie Wolf crept into the bungalow. He saw the big rabbit and the little rabbit asleep, and he was going to nibble their ears. And then he saw the big plop of pudding on Bunty's dress.

"I'll lick off that plop of chocolate pudding with my red tongue," whispered the Wolf, "and then I'll nibble their ears." So with his red tongue he licked the plop of chocolate pudding off Bunty's dress, until the blue was as clean as the sky. And then, having ate the plop of chocolate pudding, the Wolf wasn't hungry any more. "I'll nibble their ears some other time," he said.

Out of the hollow stump bungalow he crept, and when Uncle Wiggily and Baby Bunty awakened, the little rabbit girl's dress was as clean as if there never had been any chocolate pudding on it.

"Oh, how did it happen?" she cried. But she couldn't guess and Uncle Wiggily couldn't guess, and to this day they don't know unless you have told them. Anyhow, that's how it happened. And if the wash rag doesn't get its face all dirty when it plays tag with the cake of soap, I'll tell you next about Uncle Wiggily and the acorns.

TRIPLE PLAY IS MADE BY VERNON

Ninth Inning Rally Started By Salt Lake, But Cut Short by Tigers

By THREE STRIKES
For Southland News Service.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—While most of the local fans were too interested in the results of the world series game to attend the contest in our own ball yard, the Tigers pulled a stunt they haven't heard about so far in the world series— a fast triple play that brought the opener with Salt Lake to a close yesterday which resulted in a Vernon victory, 11 to 4.

The contest wasn't exactly a "knockout," as told by the score, but the mound work of young Clay Carson, who recently returned to the Tigers' lineup after being farmed out earlier in the season, together with the three-ply climax gave the fracas considerable kick. Carson allowed the Bees but three bingles until the seventh, when he let down after his team mates had slammed four Mormon twirlers for a nine-run lead.

The triple play came in the ninth, after the Bees had scored one run, on Frederick's hit to McDowell. Lindimore singled, putting Frederick on second with none down. Lewis lined a hot one down the third base line that Deal neatly stabbed, pegged to second, doubling Frederick, Slade whipped to McDowell before Lindimore could get back to first, and the party was all over.

Seattle Winner

Fighting to overcome a four-and-a-half-game lead in the league standing, Seattle blanked the Seals yesterday, 3 to 0, in a pitchers' duel between Gregg for Seattle and Geary for the Seals.

Scoring five runs in the eighth inning, Oakland defeated Sacramento yesterday, 7 to 3. Louis Vinci held the Acorns to three hits until the next to last frame.

Rain at Portland gave the Angels a rest before tackling the Beavers in their last series away from home this season.

MAJOR LEAGUERS OPEN PIN BATTLE

Pacific Electrics and Red Feathers Open Series at Recreation Alleys

Pin fans who gathered at the Recreation alleys last night for the opening game in the Major league tournament, are still talking today about the battle staged by the Red Feathers and the Pacific Electrics. The Red Feathers took the initial match, but they had to do some tall shooting.

There were 2189 pins counted for the ten men in the first game, or an average of practically 220 each. Every man on the two teams, with the exception of Anstey of the P. E. crew, rolled 200 or better in the opener. Moore of the winners topped the bunch with 256, Clanin and Maggie were not far behind with 234 each, Pabst rolled 224, Neise got 218, Brown counted 216, Dawson shot 214, Brehme got 204 and Roder rolled 200. Asnstey could do no better than 191 in the first game.

Totals Are High

The Red Feathers rolled 1018 in the third game to win the match, after the P. E. crew had taken the second game 980 to 925. Five of the ten men had a total of 600 or better for the game.

Major league games will be played each Tuesd y night at the Recreation alleys, and the schedule will last twenty-two weeks. There are ten teams in the league. The score of last night's game follows:

McGraw Blames Base Coach for Losing Game

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—While giving the full meed of credit to the Senators, particularly to Harris and Goslin, for winning the fourth game of the world's series, John McGraw took occasion today to blame his lieutenant, Hughey Jennings, for its loss.

"I disagree with Jennings' judgment in sending Meusel home in the eighth on Wilson's double," McGraw said. "The run wouldn't have tied the score in any case. If Meusel had been held at third, we would have had men on second and third with one out. As it was, we had a man on second with two out. The worst of it was that we had Mogridge on the run at the time."

Coast League Prexy Hits Back at Johnson

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—In a statement branding Ban Johnson, president of the American league, as a trouble-maker attempting to "cast suspicion every place but in his own league," Harry A. Williams, president of the Pacific coast league flatly denies charges that graft was rampant among the western ball players.

"Johnson's charge that there has been crooked baseball in the Pacific Coast league this season is something which should be backed by facts," Williams said.

John Hackenschmidt Meets Mondt Tonight

John Hackenschmidt, formerly of Glendale and now training partner of Champion Ed "Strangler" Lewis, will meet Joe "Toots" Mondt, Colorado's wrestling cowboy, in a finish match tonight at the Pasadena armory, 105 West Union street. Mondt will weigh in at 220 pounds, while Hackenschmidt will weigh 214 pounds. Allerton Johnston, of Pasadena, and Ernest Lundene, of Long Beach, will stage the semi wind-up, and there will be two preliminary matches. The show will start at 8:30 o'clock.

SHADES OF RED

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—There are several shades of red among the accepted early winter colors. These include cranberry, lipstick, rust and Venetian.

Pastor Asks Religion Be Taught In Schools

SACRAMENTO, Oct. 8.—Declaring that the reign of crime in the United States is largely due to the lack of religious training in public schools, the Rev. George L. Thorpe of Corona, Cal., anti-evolutionist who started the fight against Darwinism in California schools today asked the state board of education to set aside a one-half day each week for the religious instruction of children.

The Rev. Thorpe declared the schools are turning out a race of atheists as a result of teachings which are in conflict with the Bible. Investigations in certain eastern colleges revealed that 60 per cent of the graduates left school with their belief in God shattered, he asserted.

Asks $55,000 Damages From Street Car Crash

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—Lena Kornsweet in a suit filed today asks $55,000 for alleged injuries received Septer 'er 9 when a Los Angeles railway car jumped the tracks. Paralysis has resulted, she claims. Heirs of Annie Elizabeth Giles, who was killed in a car crash, October 8, 1923, seek $15,000 in superior court action filed today against the same street railroad.

Wife's Affection Taken, Man Charges In Suit

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—Paul E. Stoner has filed suit against his "in laws," Mr. and Mrs. Emil Kettler, asking $50,000 for the alieniation of his wife's affections. He alleges that father and mother threatened daughter Hilda Kettler Stoner with disinheritance unless she left her husband.

$750,000 Refinery Is Planned for Colorado

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 8.—Plans for the erection of a $750,000 refinery with a capacity of 3500 barrels a day to handle the output of the new oil fields near Fort Collins have been announced by a syndicate of Colorado men.

Improvement Noted In Business Conditions

ST. PAUL, Mo., Oct. 8.—The improvement in business conditions in this section is clearly shown by comparative figures on shipments of commodities here. Wheat shipments totaled 5,567,205 bushels in September as compared with 3,028,968 last year but both corn and oats showed slight declines. There were approximately a million and a half more pounds of hides handled in the month than a year ago, while zinc shipments increased nearly one hundred thousand slabs. Wool, lumber and lead receipts also increased. The Missouri Pacific road broke all records for the road in September, loading 103,399 cars and receiving 41,014 from connections.

Wage Battle to Stop Detective Testifying

TACOMA, Wash., Oct. 8.—The defense in the murder trial of Sergeant Pothier here is waging a legal battle in an effort to prevent the admittance of testimony of William L. Jones, private detective, of New York City, which was designed by the government to show that Major Alexander Cronkhite could not have shot himself. Jones told of the exhuming and autopsy of Major Cronkhite's body at West Point. He said the body was dressed in an army officer's uniform, with a major's insignia on the shoulder straps.

Increase In Sale of Dry Goods Is Noted

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Oct. 8.—Dry goods sales here for the last month have been excellent, indicating an increase of 30 per cent over last year. Retailers are sending in frequent repeat orders.

Over 4000 Carloads Grapes Go From Lodi

LODI, Cal., Oct. 8.—Total shipments of grapes from here to eastern points has already passed the 4000-carload mark, and probably will exceed 6000. Growers say prices are the best in years.

Dreyfuss Says Landis Refused to See Him

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 8.—"Commissioner Landis shut the door in my face when I tried to talk to him in Washington, and if he wants further information from me, he will have to ask it," Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, said today when informed of New York despatches, stating that baseball's high commissioner would give him and Ban Johnson, president of the American league, another hearing on any charges they might have to make in connection with the New York Giant players' scandal.

The Pirates' owner was not inclined to talk of the summary reception he received when he visited Landis, but plainly showed his indignation that his charges should be so easily ignored.

Dreyfuss said he had not planned any alliance with Ban Johnson "or anyone else" to force a showdown on the Giants' scandal.

Dynamiters Preparing For Contest In North

While the second team was holding its own against the Burbank crack eleven, Coach "Pop" Hayhurst, assisted by Coach "Jumbo" Pierce, was putting the regular Dynamiters through their paces in preparation for the big game at Santa Barbara Saturday. The game last year with Santa Barbara resulted in a track meet for the locals who piled up a 68-0 score. Although the boys up the coast are reputed to have a stronger outfit this season the Dynamiters expect to win without a great deal of difficulty. Hayhurst is keeping the Glendale gridiron warriors in excellent shape by stiff training and is strongly against any overconfidence on the part of the men.

Italians will hold a fair, in which only manufacturers and producers of Italy will participate, in Alexandria, Egypt, next spring.

SPORT WISDOM

By WALTER CAMP
Special Correspondent of The Evening News, Copyright, 1924.

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—The big upset of Saturday's football games was the defeat of Chicago by Missouri. Many were more surprised than they should have been, however, for last year Missouri held Nebraska—the conquerors of Notre Dame—to a 7-7 tie, defeated the Kansas Aggies, tied the University of Kansas and held Washington to a 13-7 score. Such a record is entitled to some respect.

Lafayette took revenge on Jock Sutherland's Pitt team for their beating last year, and Illinois beat Nebraska in a hard game, 9-6.

The Big Three showed their wares for the first time this season. Both Yale and Harvard had a bit of luck which aided their scoring. Lovejoy getting Yale's first big break through a muffed punt by Sparrow of North Carolina and running twenty-eight yards for a touchdown, while Giffey of Virginia muffed one of Gehrke's twisters and gave Greenough a chance to pick it up and score. One might say that the two captains showed thus early that they were on their jobs.

Pratt, Amherst's right guard, intercepted a forward pass of Princeton's in the third quarter and ran thirty yards for a touchdown. So Princeton was on the only one of the Big Three to be scored upon. But as an offset to that, the Tigers scored the highest total, 40 points, while Yale made 27 and Harvard only 14.

Yale's forward passing was the best concealed and the best executed, but her running game was distinctly spasmodic and lacked the snap, dash and fight of last year's team.

Harvard's backfield showed a lot of promise and Princeton's so-called silent signals seemed to work well with the exception that the line got started too soon and was offside quite a bit.

Cheek succeeded Spaulding at Harvard early and looked very good as a quarterback. At New Haven, Wernicke ran the first string which played through the first half, Bunnell replacing him and then later Wadsworth doing the signal calling for the second string men who, enmass, replaced the first team in their second half. Wadsworth seemed to get the most work out of the team, while he was in.

Princeton's line ripped more holes and better ones for the backs than either the Yale or Harvard line and showed the greater aggressiveness.

The man who led Columbia college into the ranks of the well known colleges in football in two seasons, is ready to "carry on" his third year. He is Walter Koppisch.

And the swan song he sings on the grid this year should be a brilliant one.

Koppisch seemed a perfect player, a super-star, to followers of the pigskin chasers last season. For the second consecutive year he was the unanimous choice of all critics for the All-American teams.

He was weak in one angle of the game when the 1923 campaign began however—one angle that kept him from being the perfect player. That was punting.

Percy Haughton centered his efforts on developing this phase of Koppisch's playing with the result that the closing games of last fall found the Buffalo husky a quadruple-threat man, a star in ev ry division.

His kicking, passing, line plunging and open field running made him one of the greatest backfield men on the field in 1923.

There is every reason to believe that Koppisch will be more brilliant than ever this se son.

While Walter has been winning more than an average portion of fame for himself he has also led Columbia out of the football bull-rushes. Football was abandoned at the institution for several seasons. Then, in 1915 the sport was resumed. Half a dozen coaches and rallies every other night failed to land the team any place in the gridiron sun, however. Koppisch drew attention to himself—and to Columbia his first season there, four years ago. The team still lacked strength to cope with its main rivals but Koppisch's sensational work was the big feature of its games. Critics soon began to point him out as a "big toad" in a "little puddle." Then last year Haughton took hold of the Columbia team. Around Koppisch he constructed an eleven that made its presence felt.

Phil Salvadore Wins Over Mandell at Vernon

Phil Salvadore turned the tables on Sammy Mandell, flashy eastern fighter, at the Vernon coliseum arena last night, and before a crowd of 8,000 frenzied fans slugged his way to the first victory registered over Mandell in his appearance on the coast. Salvadore, fighting as he had never fought before, broke even with the Illinois man in the first round and then stepped out and copped the three succeeding rounds with room to spare. So hard did the Sacramento Italian hit Mandell that the latter was plainly hurt in the second, from hard rights and lefts being shot into his body. It was a popular decision with the crowd who were back of the Capitol city fighter all through.

Scoring his sixth knockout in three weeks Tony Fuente, promising Mexican heavyweight, bowled over Jim Goddard after seven seconds of the first round had passed. Fuente stopped his victim with a right uppercut, the same blow he has used on the others. McLarin defeated Frankie Dolan; Martinez was given the nod over Terry Adams; Engel knocked out Martin and Bridges floored Kilroy.

Seeking Protection for Klamath River Salmon

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 8.—Proponents of the Klamath river fish and game district have prepared and are sending to sportsmen over the entire state a four-page letter urging their support of the measure which comes to a vote November 4, according to Edwin H. Hedderly of the Los Angeles office of the California fish and game commission.

The initiative measure sets aside the Klamath river, which, according to the letter, carries the last "run" of salmon and large seagoing rainbow trout left in California. The brochure further states that a trust "is exhausting every means to acquire legal rights which would permit it to monopolize the lower Klamath river for hydro-electric power, which it frankly admits is worth $108,000,000."

In support of the measure it is pointed out that a steady, dependable source of spawn, the Klamath, now is become essential to restock other streams and lakes wherein fish-life has been destroyed by needed power development, and that if major power sites already set aside were developed to capacity, they would produce enough power for thirty years to come.

Oxy Meets Redlands In Conference Tilt

Occidental college, whose varsity football team held the Cardinal eleven to a trio of touchdowns, and scored against the Red Boys, will tackle Redlands university in the first Southern California Conference game of the season. Coach Nichols and his highly praised warriors will meet the Redlands Bulldogs on their home field Saturday.

South Africa has a shortage of native labor in the gold fields.

Walter Camp to See Big Western Games Staged Next Month

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—Walter Camp is going to the Pacific coast again this year to investigate first hand the development there of football and other amateur sports. After seeing the principal October games in the east he will start westward the first week in November. The itinerary has not been worked out, but on the way Mr. Camp expects to see the Chicago-Illinois game at Chicago, Saturday, November 8, and he will be in Berkeley for the California-Stanford game on November 22.

He expects to visit several cities, including probably Seattle and Portland and in addition to attending games, watching practice and conferring with sports authorities on the coast, will speak before a number of institutions. Throughout the long trip Walter Camp will continue to write his dispatches for the Glendale Evening News.

LEASED WIRE REPORT BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

BURBANK NEWS

BURBANK, Oct. 8.—This city has been urged by the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce to scrape together five pounds of air mail a day, so that direct service can be established between the Southern California metropolis and Salt Lake City, thence east to New York.

This information was contained in a communication from the Los Angeles chamber, read before the board of directors of the Burbank C. of C. at their meeting last night.

The letter intimated that the air mail service could be secured, providing this district could make a proper showing in air mail matter. It was noted that 300 pounds of that kind of mail daily would be a proper showing and if Burbank could furnish five pounds a day, it would help out to that extent.

M. E. Purrier, deputy Los Angeles county sheriff, has returned with Mrs. Purrier to their home at 826 Tujunga avenue, after several weeks spent in the vicinity of Silver lake. They report ice on the lake nearly an inch thick.

Mrs. Grace Raymond of 242 Santa Anita avenue, recently arrived from Cleveland, Ohio, to spend the winter. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Shearer, also of Cleveland, are expected to join her later.

W. E. Hewitt Writes to Redmond From Ireland

W. E. Hewitt, president of the Glendale Chamber of Commerce, who is traveling abroad, writes to Clarence Redmond, local Union Pacific agent, from Belfast, Ireland. The card, written September 29, reads:

"Have been making more towns than a traveling passenger agent. Go to Dublin tonight. Ireland looks fine. You go riding here in a two-wheel jaunting cart, like a taxi in Los Angeles. Weather is fine. I sail October 18 on the Aquitania."

FROM EAGLE ROCK

EAGLE ROCK, Oct. 8.—"Green Stockings" will not be seen in Eagle Rock until October 24, declares Mrs. Elgie Lowry Fischer, hastening to add, lest this announcement be taken by some for a hosiery edict, that this is the title of the Community Players production that was to have come early this month.

The reason for the postponement, she states, is that it conflicts with the Harvest Home festival of October 10 and 11. The Community Players' Ensemble Trio, composed of Miss Ruth Thompson, musical director of the Community Players; Virgil Drengberg, violinist; and Telejoe Freeman, flutist, will make its first appearance Friday night, October 24, playing a number of classical selections, among them one from the great opera "Aida." Emily Joerg will sing a solo.

The last of the Rockdale P.-T. A. conferences will be held 8 o'clock tonight at the schoolhouse, for the A-4 and B-5 classes. It is announced. Conferences for the A-3 and B-4 classes were held last night, when 50 per cent of the parents were present.

Pupils at the Toland Way school are showing much interest in the pageant, "Moon Dreams" and are attending rehearsals regularly. The pageant is to be given at Patterson stadium, Occidental college, October 17 and 18, under the auspices of Section F of the P.-T. A. federation.

Western Rangers Hold Meeting, Outline Plans

Acoma council, Western Rangers held its regular meeting at the Wilson Intermediate Monday night when plans were discussed for the cone sale which the boys will participate in next Saturday, Octobr 11. There are twenty-five councils of Western Rangers in Los Angeles county and vicinity, each council taking part in the cone sale, the proceeds of which will be used for the chest fund for the building of a camp at Lake Arrowhead. A portion of the money derived from the sale will be used to purchase regular Indian tepees for the camps at Precepicio and Millards canyon. Harry C. James is chief of the Glendale council.

AT VERDUGO CITY

VERDUGO CITY, Oct. 8.—The directors of Verdugo City Association of Commerce, at its last regular weekly meeting adopted a resolution asking the Board of Supervisors of Los Angeles county to resurface all rough spots on Honolulu avenue between Montrose and Verdugo City at once, and further to appropriate money for the first unit of a sixty-six foot concrete boulevard, between curbs, on Honolulu avenue, from Ocean View in Montrose, to Pennsylvania avenue in Verdugo City.

President H. N. Fowler, of the Verdugo City association, has secured signatures to eighty-one, twelve foot set back frontage and radius corner deeds, of a total of 130, facing Honolulu avenue, between Ocean View avenue in Montrose and Ramsdell avenue in Verdugo City and is at work on the balance of forty-nine to make the widening and radius corner project unanimous in the first zone.

The county right of way department has completed deeds and maps for additional Honolulu avenue, Pennsylvania avenue and upper, or West Honolulu avenue frontage and radius corners. These will be presented to property owners by the chief of Verdugo City activities, in the next two weeks, for signatures.

Early this year, Verdugo City Association of Commerce started the project of widening Honolulu avenue, from Montrose to Tujunga, to ninety feet over all and rounding all intersecting corners. County officials approved this plan and have co-operated and assisted in every way possible in anticipation of completing a main trunk boulevard through the entire length of La Crescenta valley, connecting with Flintridge, Pasadena and Glendale, at the east end and San Fernando valley at the west end.

Tujunga and Sunland property owners and businessmen are now organizing to assist Verdugo City and they hope to finish this project and complete the full width paving within two years.

When completed this boulevard, with its sixty-six foot concrete driveway, and twelve foot parkway on each side, will afford the most attractive scenic drive in Southern California.

Starting in Glendale and extending north through Verdugo Canyon, skirting the foot hills on the west side, passing in front of beautiful Oakmont club, thence west, near the green Verdugo Hills, on an easy grade through Verdugo City to Tujunga, then a gradual descent westward through Sunland into the wonderful and always thriving San Fernando valley, this proposed drive is bound to attract thousands of motorists and especially tourists.

Property owners in Montrose, Verdugo City, Tujunga and Sunland did not rally to Mr. Fowler's big hobby, as he calls it, when it was launched. However, as its possibilities unfolded before their eyes, they are rapidly coming to his support and the project is gaining momentum daily.

Phil Begue, owner of the largest vineyard in Tujunga, has expressed himself in favor of deeding a ninety foot strip through his vineyard to assist in providing a short cut continuation of this drive through Tujunga.

A mass meeting and dinner will be held at Oakmont club in the near future to make further plans in connection with this drive. All interested will be welcome, states Mr. Fowler.

Mr. Fowler is also endeavoring to awaken Glendale authorities and business men to the necessity and importance of widening Glendale avenue, and Verdugo road to care for the heavy traffic on this single entrance into Glendale from the north. He states Pasadena merchants are not overlooking the business of La Crescenta valley and quite a number of Pasadena delivery trucks and light deliveries are seen in La Crescenta valley regularly. He also argues, due to the unsafe and dangerous curves on Verdugo road, made so by heavy traffic, a large number of valley residents drive to Pasadena to do their shopping and for amusements.

REBELS IN RETREAT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—General Ferrera, leader of the Honduran rebels, was routed when he made a surprise attack on the forces of President Tosta near Camaygua, according to dispatches to the state department today. The rebels are now in retreat.

MONTROSE NOTES

MONTROSE, Oct. 8.—The important question of this center at the present time, that of widening Honolulu avenue and resurfacing it, was discussed last evening at the business meeting of the Montrose Chamber of Commerce. Petitions are being prepared and will be circulated by the committee on roads; A. Sullivan, William Fowler and Frank Turner. Harry Fowler of Verdugo City Association of Commerce, stated that residents in the Verdugo City section have practically all signed deeds to the county for the proposed widening of this boulevard.

James Brown, president, announced the following standing committees for the year: Roads and streets, Albert Sullivan, William Fowler and Frank Turner; fire, water and light, C. L. Mead, W. Chudley and T. Potts; parks, C. Clarke and Captain Famel; telephones, A. B. Cochran, T. Merritt and Dr. Johns; public safety, Theo. Belanger and E. Adkins; emergency issues, C. Reinhart, A. Sullivan and W. Hickey. Mr. Brown instructed the committees to report at each meeting. Mr. Reinhart, retiring treasurer, requested an auditing committee be appointed at once to take charge of his books reporting at the next meeting when he will turn them over to the new treasurer. The committee appointed B. C. Slattery, T. O. Potts and W. Alden.

Mr. Doyle, manager of the new Montrose picture theatre, was introduced by Mr. Brown and gave an outline of the formation of the company which had made possible the theatre. Mark Collins, president of the La Crescenta Improvement association, presented the request for $50 for equipment for fire fighters who are members of the Angeles Forest Protective association. A letter of resignation from Mrs. A. F. Hopkins, chairman of the entertaining committee, was read and accepted.

Talking on publicity, Mr. Brown spoke about having a Montrose night on one of the downtown radio stations. The committee on publicity will look into this matter. W. Kaune and L. Quakenbush will report at the next meeting. On a motion made by Frank Tuner, 250 copies of the by-laws will be printed for the use of the members. The next meeting will be on the first Tuesday in November.

The mothers of Montrose have formed their own Parent-Teacher association which will function under the leadership of the following officers: Mrs. C. Reinhart, president; Mrs. A. Smith, vice-president; Mrs. Simpson, secretary; Mrs. W. Newman, treasurer. Mrs. Kulp of Glendale organized the new club, this being her first work in her now office as organizer of outside districts. Dues for the new association will be 50 cents per year. The meetings are to be held on the second Friday of each month in the Montrose schoolhouse.
